Anticus International Corp. receives positive response from Canadian Cheese Processors

Anticus Corporation (Anticus) a public traded company on the OTC: BB exchange (trading symbol: ATCI. OB), is pleased, to announce that its discussions with a Quebec Canada based manufacturer of cheeses have been met with great enthusiasm. Anticus had initially sought to acquire a long term supply contract for this manufacturer's lacto serum to be used in conversion process. The manufacturer has now initiated discussions regarding partnering in the construction of a forty six million (46,000,000) litre per year bioconversion plant to convert the waste lacto serum into yeast. The Manufacturer with Anticus has initiated discussions with other interested regional cheese manufacturers for their waste lacto serum to be processed at the proposed bioconversion plant. The Board of Directors for Anticus has approved of and supports final negotiations toward an agreement to develop this plant cooperatively.

Anticus has acquired the worldwide exclusive license to the microbiological process known as Prolactis, which through the use of a bioreactor provides, for the bioconversion of lactose and other sugar, into high proteins biomass, literally transforming waste and by products into water and yeast to be used in animal feed.

The process has been developed by Jacques Goulet, Ph.D., agr., professor at Laval University in Quebec City, Quebec, Michel Deblois, engineer, and Lucien Pomerleau, M.Sc., agr. Worldwide patents are pending.
